Huggins Clan to Help Barrow's Red Sox Celebrate Patriots' Day To-morrow

By W. J. Macbeth The rain falls on the just and unjust, but mostly on baseball parks. For the second consecutive day our April freshets washed major league baseball right out of the picture. The members of four big league clubs quartered in this city had an opportunity yesterday afternoon to get better acquainted with the big town and inspect the many vacant real estate

Granting it clears in time-if it is ever going to clear-this should be a big Sunday for metropolitan fans. Both the Phillies and Braves will remain in our midst. Gavvy Cravath's Quakers will take their first fling at the Giants at the Polo Grounds. Boston, which won both of the games played with the men of McGraw, will invade Ebbets Field to try their luck with the Dodgers. The Yankees were rained out at Shibe Park. Philadelphia, and returned to this city on an early afternoon train. Huggins and his men will leave about midday for Boston and a good night's sleep in preparation for their first clash with the Red Sox.

Two games will be played in Boston to-morrow—morning and afternoon. It is Patriots' Day, one of the very best boildays of the Back Bay section. It provides New York with four games in three playing days at the Hub. So that if Huggins can make the best of his opportunities against a supposedly weak rival, he should return for Thursday's big Yankee opening against the Athletics at the Polo Grounds with a fine percentage of victories. the Phillies and Braves will remain in

Cravath Is Pleased

Gavvy Cravath is more than pleased with the even split in two games at Ebbets Field. The fact that his team was able to manhandle both Rube Marquard and Al Mamaux in the second game brought something resembling a smile to his harried features.

"I must confess," said Cravath yesterday, "that I was apprehensive of Robbie's pitchers, such fine accounts of them were sent up from the South. But we hit the best Robbie could offer. And we hope to hit McGraw's pitchers, too."

Eppa Rixey, the veteran pitcher of the Quakers, will pitch the first game against the Giants. Rixey was beaten in the opening game at Ebbets Field, but the fault was not his. His support was sieve-like, as is frequently the case with a club which runs strongly to young material, especially on big occasions like epening days.

It is not expected that McGraw will send out one of his good southpaws against the Phillies. Cravath's is a right-handed hitting outfit. The continued rain doubtless has affected all the pitchers sojourning around New York, but especially those who have idled most since returning North. Jess Barnes and Fred Toney, therefore, from having worked against the Braves, should be in better condition right now than any of their clubmates.

Mays Ready to Pitch

Mays Ready to Pitch
Carl Mays will have the honor of pitching one of to-morrow's games against his old teammates, the Red Sox. Carl did not accompany the Yankees to Philadelphia, because of an old trouble that is hanging over his head. He eschewed the Town of Sleep last year, so far as that goes. But the author of the subway ball is simply spoiling for work and for revenge on his critics of the Hub.

Aaron Ward, the utility infielder of the Yankees, who was sent home from Chester, S. C., suffering from an attack of water on the knee, will be in uni-form again to-day, though it is not likely he will take any but light exercise before the end of the week.

Charles H. Ebbets, the Squire of Flat-bush, announced yesterday the dates for the play-off of his two postpone-ments with the Phillies. For the first an open date, Thursday, May 27, will be employed. The other will furnish half of a double header at Ebbets Field on Saturday, July 3.

President John A. Heydler, of the National League, did not report at his town office vesterday. John remained at his summer home in Rockaway. He was slightly indisposed. He had a stiff neck. It is rumored he contracted the ailment looking for Ban Johnson and his promised conference on the National Commission chairmanship.

So far there has been no confusion in enforcing the new pitching rules. Nor has undue delay been noticed. But the fact remains that there is no manner in which a smart pitcher can be prevented from handing out an intentional pass when he is in a hole.

The Yankees were to have played an exhibition in Hartford, Conn., this afternoon, but on account of the uncertain weather and more uncertain railway transportation Business Manager Sparrow decided to call it off. The Yankees have a morning game tomorrow, so the rest should not be amiss.

Twice during the game Chicago had the lead, but failed to hold it. Each team used three pitchers, all of whom were hit hard and often. A six-run rally in the seventh inning won for Moran's team.

Tyler made his 1920 debut, or rather his first attempt at a come back. For two innings he got by in good shape. But in the third the locals landed heavily upon his offerings for three runs. Martin, who replaced Tyler in the seventh, met a similar fate, and was charged with the defeat. Hendrix was finally rushed in, but failed to stop the onslaught.

Frazee Seeks Writ To Prevent Schang From Playing Ball ROSTON, April 17 .- An injunction restraining Catcher Walter Schang from playing with the Lebanon Club, of the Bethlehem Steel League, or any team other than the Red Sox, will be sought by the Boston Americans, President H. H. Schang, according to Frazee, is under contract to play with the Boston club for the next two years. The catcher, who is reported to have demanded an advance from $4,500 he received last year to $12,000 as this year's salary, has announced that he is going to give his time to airplane business.

Renew Effort To Put Boxing Back in State

Hopes Revived That Bill Will Be Passed; Lawler to Make Eastern Debut

Efforts to put over the Walker bill o restore professional boxing in New York state were received yesterday, and the cauliflower cars which were drooping for the last few weeks are once more standing to attention. For some time it looked as though the boxing bill might be gassed to death in the Assembly where it died a lingering death last year.

The Walker boxing bill would permit fifteen rounds to a decision by two udges and a referee. The state of New Jersey has just passed a new boxing bill raising the number of rounds to be boxed from eight to twelve. The first bout under the new law in Jersey will be staged by Dave Driscoll in Jersey City, with Willie Jackson and Jack Lawlor, the Southern lightweight, as the principals.

Jackson once upset Johnny Dundee, the runner-up for the lightweight title, and Lawlor held the Scotch wop to a draw recently. Also the Southern battler got a referee's decision over Benny Valgar, the Bowery Frenchman.

Enthusiasm Dies Suddenly
The Walker boxing bill went through the Senate with a rush, and there seemed to be every prospect that it would pass through the Assembly with the same amount of speed, when the enthusiasm'died suddenly. There were rumors that the bill never would emerge again and that the Gillett bill, which contines boxing to the armories under National Guard supervision, was the only measure that would have a chance.
This caused the cauliflower ears to droop sadly, for there was considerable Enthusiasm Dies Suddenly

Bid for Carpentier Bout The two leading Jersey promoters have been trying to induce Georges Carpentier to sign up for some sort of a bout. They have not invited him to try conclusions with either Dempsey or Fulton. They are willing to let him pick his man. But all that Carpentier's manager, Deschamps, has done so far has been to listen intently.

Carpentier will start soon on a theatrical tour under the management of Jack Curley, the wrestling impresario. One of his traveling companions probably will be Joe Stecher.
